HARVEY WATTERSON

Killed in New York--Lost Balance in Nineteenth Story Office.

Harvey Watterson, son of Henry Watterson, editor of the Courier-Journal, was instantly killed by a fall from a window of his law office on the nineteenth floor of the Trust Company of America building in New York Wednesday afternoon. It was from one of the side windows overlooking the United States Trust Company building that he fell and he landed on the roof of that building nine stories below. Death must have been instantaneous. After a careful examination Dr. Lehane pronounced the fatality a case of accidental death.

The theory is that Mr. Watterson's hands slipped as he was endeavoring to close a window in his private office and that he fell forward as a result with such force that he was unable to catch the sides of the windows or the sill.

The law firm occupied a suite of five rooms in the northeast corner of the building.

Mr. Watterson married Miss Alice Burrows, of New York, August 19, 1904, and she survives him.

"I have been somewhat costive, but Doan's Regulets gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulate the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 306 Walnut Ave., Altoona, Pa.

CIGAR FACTORIES CLOSE.

Local Option Victories in Ohio Held Responsible.

At Maysville, Ky., Nov. 9, the E. A. Robinson Cigar Company and George W. Childs, two of the largest manufacturers in the State, shut down.

They attribute their action to dull trade and late local option victories in Ohio, closing up 1,500 saloons, with which they did a thriving business.

These two employed 100 men, who will be compelled to go elsewhere to seek employment.

Says It's Fine.

GRAND JURY

Of Fayette County Makes Report on W. E. Smith Case.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 6, 1903. Editor Mt. Sterling Advocate, Mt. Sterling, Ky.:

Dear Sir:—Much has been written and published to the disadvantage of the State University, on the disappearance of Mr. W. E. Smith some weeks ago. The Grand Jury of Fayette county has had the matter under investigation and upon adjournment made the enclosed report. Assuming that the newspapers of the Commonwealth are interested in knowing the truth, and that they will be glad to place the State University in a proper light before the community, I send you the report referred to, with the request that you give it equal publicity with the compromising rumors which have obtained currency.

Mr. Smith has not yet been discovered. The belief grows stronger daily that he went away voluntarily. Yours very truly,

JAMES K. PATTERSON,
President State University.

We, the Grand Jury of Fayette county, Ky., respectfully report to the court that so far as we could have investigated those matters with reference to which we were charged, and have from time to time reported to this court indictments where the facts, in our opinion, justified it.

We have spent a great deal of time in the investigation of the disappearance of Willis E. Smith, a student of State University. In the course of our investigation we have also tried to run down all newspaper stories and rumors, but in no case have we found any testimony to substantiate such newspaper statements or reports.

In all cases we have traced such stories and reports back to some person who had merely expressed his opinion of the possible solution of the mystery.

We have been able to find no witness who ever saw Smith on the night of his disappearance, after he left his boarding house. We recommend that the investigation be continued by the detective force of the city and county, and the matter be again submitted to the Grand Jury.

Cured His Hogs.

J. A. Scott, Avon, Ky., says: "Bourbon Hog Cholera Remedy cured some hogs for me that I did not think could possibly be saved." Sold by W. S. Lloyd.

The American Tobacco Co.

The decision by a vote of four out of one of the Judges of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting at New York, that the American Tobacco Company is a combination in restraint of trade, is the biggest thing yet accomplished by the Government in its fight on corporations that make a practice of violating the Sherman act.

The case is still to go to the Supreme Court, there to be decided on the law and the evidence. The hope, however, that the Supreme Court will sustain the decision of the Circuit Court seems not unreasonable.

In no section of the country will the further progress of the case be watched with greater interest than in Kentucky, since with the Supreme Court rests the power to give the release from lawlessness that is no longer hoped for from the State.—Louisville Times.

DAY OF THANKS.

Governor Willson Names November 26th as the Day.

Gov. Willson has issued his Thanksgiving proclamation, fixing November 26 as a day for thanks throughout the Commonwealth. It is as follows:

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 10. Thanksgiving proclamation:

By the custom of our fathers and in accord with the Thanksgiving proclamation of the President of the United States of America, and in the name of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and all of its people, and for each and every soul in the Commonwealth, the Governor of Kentucky sets the day of prayer and thanksgiving to God on Thursday, November 26, 1903.

No one is so poor nor wretched that he hath not something to thank God for, and no one is so blessed that he doth not need to bow in prayer, and our people in their homes should pray earnestly for relief from woes and wrongs, as they should return earnest thanks for the many blessings granted unto us by Providence.

As partners in the heritage, power and hopes of our whole country, we have great blessings and honors to be thankful for, and as those upon whom God hath showered great bounty of climate, soil, wealth beneath the ground, of noble deeds and great names, of great sacrifices and great gifts, we ought to return fervent thanks, and we ought to give covenant to the Lord to cherish and obey His laws and to keep with each other the covenants of our own laws and customs, to build up this Commonwealth and the business of all its people, to make every family in this Commonwealth rich in the spirit of the Old Kentucky Home, generous, free and unfratid; to welcome its full workers to our State and to win and keep and hold the faithful love, confidence and service of all who are with us now.

Now, therefore, I, Augustus E. Willson, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, have set the 26th day of this November, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and ask that in so far as in us lies all shall cease from toil and business, and in our homes and places of worship truly thank our God for our great blessings and pray His gracious providence and pledge to Him to keep our covenant with our God and each other, of faithful service, of human kindness, earnest work and patient endurance of the tasks of life, that we may deserve a continuation of blessings in the future.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth of Kentucky to be affixed.

Done at Frankfort this 10th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1903 and in the 11th year of our Commonwealth.

AUGUSTUS E. WILLSON,
Governor of Kentucky.
BEN L. BRUNER,
Secretary of State.

THIS IS SAID TO HELP MANY.

Druggists Here in Town Say They Can Supply the Ingredients or Make Up the Mixtures.

Get from any prescription phar-

ist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered as the most certain prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

EIGHT DEAD AND FIFTEEN INJURED.

Express Train Crashes into Rear of Local.

A Great Northern express crashed into the rear of a New Orleans and Northeastern local Wednesday morning at Littlewoods Station, a fishing and hunting camp on Lake Pontchartrain, twelve miles from New Orleans.

Eight dead and many more injured, some of them fatally, is the record of the wreck, which was attended by unusually gory scenes in the fog-bound swamps of the lake shore. To add to the horror of the situation the wreck caught fire and only the heroic work of the surviving passengers prevented the cremation of those pinned down in the debris.

Among those killed was C. B. Lowry, who, for many years, was one of the most prominent and popular citizens of Lexington.

Sued for $50,000.

Col. Milton Young, the wealthy turfman, thoroughbred horse breeder and commander of the State Racing Commission, of Fayette county, was made the defendant in a suit for $25,000 damages filed by Charles M. McDonald, a member of the Lexington bar and associate of the James E. Hughes printing house, of Lexington in the publication of law books and almanacs.

McDonald gave it a trial. It was decided that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

Social pleasures and business engagements should not come between the Democrats of Kentucky and their duty in selecting precinct committeemen on next Satuday at 2 o'clock, standard time.
EVERY man should be personally interested, and should be present, if he can conscientiously support either candidate. It sometimes happens that while a candidate is personally acceptable, yet his alliance with other candidates renders support of him inadvisable.
What does your preference of a candidate amount to if you are ABSENT when the count is made?
If you stay away, and the best man is turned down, have you any ground for complaint? Did you try for the best?

ARE WE GUILTY?

Enroute to Frenchburg Circuit Court last week the writer passed the Phelps home where a few months ago the tragedy occurred which resulted in the loss of two lives, when young Phelps after shooting his brother-in-law, Woodard, committed suicide even while his sister clung to him. A woman with the Woodard infant in her arms stood in the door as we passed. This recalled the tragedy which occurred on a Sunday afternoon, after the two men had come on Sunday morning to Jeffersonville, Montgomery county, and bought whiskey illegally sold.
The writer thought not only of the deep sorrow that had befallen those homes, but of the shame and reproach that comes to our own county for tolerating the contamination of that saloon and especially for the sale of whiskey on the Lord's day.

To what extent God will hold the officiary and citizens of Montgomery (including Jeffersonville) responsible for the crime we can not tell. We deeply regret that the sad and killing occurred. For years we have plead in private, pulpit and press with the people of Montgomery to walk in the way that the Christ has pointed out, and especially to suppress the sale of intoxicates, the instigator of crimes.

SELECTION OF COMMITTEE MEN.

On next Saturday at 2 o'clock in each precinct of the city and county there will be an election by the Democrats of a committee from each precinct. The men thus elected will form the County Committee, which, for the next four years, will direct the affairs of the Democratic party. In politics as in business, men should be fair, honest, clean. We hope that the election will result in the selection of men who will satisfactorily annborably conduct the business committed to them.

In reputation and character party cannot easily, if at all, rise above the reputation and character of the men who formulate its principles and execute its work. Commending what in the past has been praiseworthy and regretting that which has been suspicious or vicious in our State, we trust the a quickened conscience and a high conception of civic righteousness will characterize the ruling bodies—the powers that be.

Remember that on Saturday Democratic Precinct Committeemen are to be elected. If these men are elected, honesty, fairness, justice will prevail. If COUNTER-VOTERS get in, there is no telling what all will happen. Frauds, graft, reprobate, defeat, will follow.

Abuse,—verbal or by act,—seldom converts a man. Let there be appeals to the better element of a man's make up, if you want to change him. Publicity of facts—however unpleasant the duty and privilege—is not to be construed as hostility or hatred.

The imposing of a fine for a lawless act, or the possession of a license, does not change the moral quality of the act or the business, nor does it give peace to the conscience of him who has done his neighbor wrong.

President-elect Taft will convene a special session of Congress soon after March 4.

GAMBLERS LECTURED.

Judge William Mc. Dow, Shaw, Circuit Judge of Kenton county, is determined that gambling must be stopped in the county, and makes the gamblers indicted by the grand jury promise to stop. These men had followed a custom that is not uncommon of agreeing with the Commonwealth's Attorney that they would make a plea of guilty, receive the smallest fine possible and then continue in business until the time of the meeting of the next grand jury. When the cases were called the Judge demonstrated that he was not to be fooled with in his efforts to break up gambling in the county. Calling the men before him he thus addressed the men:

"Mr. Funk, Mr. Osterholt, Mr.
Kinkard and Mr. Shafer, you are indicted for permitting gambling on the premises in your occupation and under your control. As I understand it, the Commonwealth's Attorney has agreed with you, subject to the consent of the Court, that on your plea of guilty a fine of $250 shall be imposed. Ordinarily, whenever there is an agreement between the defendants and the attorney for the Commonwealth judgment is entered without any comment by the Court, but I feel that in these cases I want something else done. The object of the law is not only to punish a man for violating the law, but to prevent further violations of the law. These pleas of guilty and the imposition of fines will amount to absolutely nothing if gambling is to be continued. It would only result in your quitting business and permitting some one else to take it up and run it as before, thus forming an endless chain of gambling. You and those in your employ must quit this kind of business. If after these pleas these gambling continues on your premises, and the Commonwealth's Attorney is furnished any evidence of its continuance, the Court will call a special grand jury to indict, and when indictments are returned, no pleas will be allowed to be entered, but the cases will be tried by a jury and you will have to take your chances. It is only under these circumstances that I am going to accept the pleas of guilty in these cases. If you are willing to quit business and not allow it on your premises these pleas will be entered."

The Judge then made the four men stand before him, and addressing them one by one by name, extracted a promise from them that they would quit for good. The Judge then assessed the fines of $250 each.

Reference is made to "a custom that is not unusual of agreeing with the Commonwealth Attorney, etc." The object of such an agreement is usually not the enforcement of law, the suppression of the offense. Whether or not the attorney thinks he is doing his duty, the public will be apt to conclude that he has "an eye to business," while with the other eye he looks at the lawlessness, and in that measure loses the confidence of men who regard him as the executor of law. If the act referred to is illegal it should be broken up, suppressed, and not tolerated by the recurring imposition of a fine which is nothing more or less than an incentive to continue in business in partnership with the civil officer.

BRYAN SAYS

The Democracy Will yet come into its own.

Declaring the Democratic party cannot die and has accomplished more out of office the last twelve years than the Republican party has in office, W. J. Bryan bids his supporters not despair. In the Commoner he speaks of the election future and discusses the future.

"The election of 1908 is over and the returns disclose a signal victory for our opponents, but the principles for which our party stands, the policies for which our party contends, these are not dead.

"The American people will permanently permit secrecy as to campaign contribution? Does any one believe
the American people will permanently permit the will of the voters to be thwarted as it is now by the election of Senators through Legislatures? Does any one believe the trusts will be permitted permanently to exploit the masses? Does any one believe the consumers will permanently permit the tariff to be written by the beneficiaries of that tariff? Does any one believe the public will permanently tolerate an estrangement between labor and capital? Does any one believe 15,000,000 of depositors will forever permit their savings to be forgotten as at present? Does any one believe the extravagance of government will go on forever unchecked? Does any one believe our Republic will permanently concentrate to a colonial policy with its humiliations and its financial burdens?"

"During the last twelve years the Democratic party has accomplished more out of office than the Republicans have in office, and this is a sufficient reward for those who fight for the righteous cause. It would have been pleasant to have been able to reward worthy Democrats with official positions. They are looking for good government, and they labor unselfishly for the promotion of good government.

"As for myself, let me worry about my future. The holding of office is a mere incident of life of those who are devoted to the cause of those who are devoted to the cause.
The reform is the essential thing.
If one can advance reforms by holding office, then holding of office is justifiable; if one can best advance reforms as a private citizen, then holding office is undesirable.

"The world owes me nothing.
I have been abundantly compensated for what I have been able to do.
My life will not be long enough to repay the people for their support and for the confidence they have expressed.

"With an abiding faith in the triumph of truth and unfaltering confidence in the righteousness of our cause, I speak this word of encouragement to those who call themselves friends. I shall keep step with them and march on. If we are right, as I believe we are, it will vindicate us; if we contribute, as I believe we are contributing,
to a cause that is founded on justice our efforts will weigh in final victory."

The Lesson from Missouri.

It is a mistake to assert that Gov. Hughes was the only man elected in a local election on a straight out moral issue.

The election of Attorney General Herbert S. Hadley as Governor of Missouri was in some ways a more remarkable triumph than that of Gov. Hughes.

Mr. Hadley is the Republican Attorney General of a normally Democratic State. He was chosen to this position on the Roosevelt tidal wave four years ago. Although the Governor of the State, Mr. Folk, was a Democrat, Mr. Hadley declined to play partisan politics and backed Mr. Folk in every reform measure that official undertook.

Mr. Hadley was particularly active in aiding Mr. Folk in the enforcement of the State law requiring the saloons to keep closed on Sunday in St. Louis, Kansas City and elsewhere and in Gov. Folk's successful crusade against the racetrack gamblers. When nominated for Governor Mr. Hadley announced that he would follow closely in the steps of Gov. Folk and would continue his policies.

The Democratic party on the other hand repudiated the policies of Mr. Folk, and at a fraudulent primary nominated Congressman Cowherd, a pronounced reactionary, for Governor.

The fight for Mr. Hadley was considered almost hopeless as rural Missouri has always been strong for Bryan, and it was feared that St. Louis would pile up a large majority against the Republican nominee because of his attitude toward the Sunday law.

The fear was not realized. Mr. Hadley broke even with Mr. Cowherd in rural Missouri. He carried St. Louis by 12,000, and he is elected Governor by a majority of about 17,000 votes. In this race not only did the voters see the issue clearly and elect Mr. Hadley, but because of Mr. Hadley's strength the electoral vote of the State goes to Taft.

The Kansas City Star says:

Hadley's victory looks like a detail of a popular triumph. The combination of the Special Interests against him was complete. Brewery domination, machine rule, saloon lawbreaking, racetrack gambling, these threats to a good government and public decency were all depending on the defeat of Hadley and all their forces were in desperate activity against him.

Tobacco Sales at Lexington.

The season's second tobacco sales took place Friday; the highest price of the year was received for a small amount.

A small quantity from the Van Brasher farm, in this county about miles from Lexington sold at rate of $29 per hundred, and it is said that this is the highest price ever received for burley tobacco on the local breaks. This was purchased by the Blue Grass Tobacco Company of this city and will be used in the manufacture of the Blue Ribbon twist.

A lot of 500 pounds from Madison county, was sold to the American Tobacco Company at $25.50.

Below are the total sales for the three warehouses:

25,000 pounds, highest $29; lowest $14.

42,000 pounds; highest $25.50 lowest $10.50.

10,000 pounds, average $18; total 77,000 pounds.

Francis Henry, prosecutor of Abe Ruef, the noted San Francisco graft and corruptionist, was shot Friday during the progress of trial by Morris Haas, a Jewish saloon-keeper who was rejected as a juror because he was an ex-convict. Henry will recover. Haas later succumbed in jail.

Mrs. Torrence, for whom the boy had been working, disdained him, and the following day he secured a shotgun and returned to her home and shot Mrs. Torrence, killing her instantly. The boy stated that he did the shooting "because she did not have any right to fire me."

BAR FROM NOMINATION.

Use of Money or Whisky in Franklin Primary Means Disqualification.

If any candidate in the Democratic primary held yesterday in Franklin county can show that his successful opponent used money or whisky to further his nomination, the County Committee will refuse to make out a certificate to the winner. It has been determined that this primary shall be conducted on a square and fair basis, in accordance with the rules for the primary, which forbid any use of money or whisky, and the County Committee is determined to enforce this rule strictly. A majority of the members of the committee will not hold on after their present terms expire, so that they will be free to act.

ACTOR WAS BOWED WITH GRIEF.

But Not Altogether Because of the Death of His Wife.

A certain well-known actor was curiously emotional—very much attached to his wife. She died after a lingering illness, and the poor old tragedian was all broken up about her. One night a friend went to the actor's dressing room and found him in tears. He was making up, and having a hard time of it.

"Excuse me, old chap," he muttered, brokenly. "This is weakness, of course, but I was just thinking of my wife. You never get used to it, I suppose. So you just sit it out, I suppose. When I am thinking of her, I am thinking of her all the time. You see, my wife was my rock—always there, always sympathetic. I can't get used to her absence."

"Why, when she knew she was dying, she said to me, 'I want you to put our photograph in the coffin with me. Promise!'" I promised, of course. That's what I was thinking of when you came in. I had no photographs left, at the time, but I have taken one on purpose. Oh, dear, oh dear!"

"They didn't do me justice!"

Human Fireflies.

Parvula of Chinese incense sticks may rejoice in the fact which has developed over on Riverside drive, says the New York Press. It is the fashion to hang these tiny incense sticks along the park wall and saunter up and down from the Schwab mansion to Grant's tomb to carry a handful of burning joss sticks. These they wave gently back and forth, the glowing ends of the sticks catching the folds of their dresses, which at times ferment the park. But now the moment is not considered. The girls carry the joss sticks because the sparkling fire seems to add to the picturesqueness of the scene and because it has become a fad.

Dining Late and Long.

In St. Alfonso West's early days society often dined late and the late Lord Clanwilliam once told him of one occasion when he dined at a friend's villa near Putney and the meal did not end until 12 o'clock.

When they at last rose from the table and went to their rooms, Lord Clanwilliam flung open his window and saw the haymakers coming into the field. "I wonder," he thought, "what they are doing with their scythes, which at this hour ferment the park, but now the moment is not considered."

That seems a puzzle, but it is quite simple. He was born and reared in Cumberland, and when Harriet was created a duchess he had to find himself in Bayswater. Afterward he moved to Moore county, and when the county of Lee was formed he was residing in Lee—Fayetteville Observer.

"That house I have taken from you," said the dissatisfied tenant, "is horribly draughty and cold, and sitting in the middle of the room my hair blows all over my head. Can't you do something to the windows?"

"Don't you think, sir," replied the house agent, suavely, "that it would be easier and cheaper for you to get your hair cut?"

WILL NOT BE CALLED GRANDMA.

Writer Explains Somewhat Venomously, Why Women Dislike Word.

"The word 'grandma' is dying out," said a lexicographer, or master of dictionaries, pausing in his labor on the letter G. "By 2000, at this rate, no such word will exist."

"What will take its place?"

"Names," said the lexicographer.

"Names such as 'dear old,' 'dearest,'—such rubbish. You see," explained the lexicographer, "women think that they have learned to staff off old age. A woman of 50, because she has dyed her hair, a painted her face, and, in short, has been examined, thinks that she looks young.

CROP OF CORN.

Report of the Department of Agriculture is Issued.

An average yield of 26.2 bushels of corn per acre and an indicated total production of 2,612,687,000 bushels of corn are preliminary estimates announced in the report of the Department of Agriculture issued at Washington, summarizing corn and five other crops. The yield of corn per acre in 1907 was 25.9 as finally estimated, and averaged 25.6 for ten years, while the production is compared with 2,592,320,000 bushels finally estimated in 1907. Quality of corn is 86.9 per cent, compared with 82.8 in 1907 and 84.3 ten-year average.

About 2.7 per cent., or 71,124,000 bushels, is estimated to have been in farmers' hands on November 1, against 4.5 per cent., or 130,995,000 bushels a year ago, and a ten-year average of 4.5 per cent.

France and Germany Agree to Arbitration.

The question that has arisen between France and Germany over what has come to be known as the "Casa Blanca incident," arising out of the arrest by the French authorities of German deserters from the French foreign legion, will be referred to a court of arbitration. M. Jules Cambon, the French Ambassador at Berlin, and Baron Von Waechter, the German Secretary for Foreign Affairs, signed an agreement looking to the settlement of matters in dispute.

The official text of the agreement sets forth that after an exchange of expressions of regret that the incident occurred, the entire question of law and facts shall be submitted to arbitration. No mention is made of The Hague tribunal, the selection of the court being left open for adjustment later.

The agreement also provides that the country whose agents are adjudged at fault shall make an apology to the other.

An experiment in long-distance wireless telegraphy, under official auspices, will be made by the Navy Department. Satisfactory proposals are received in response to an advertisement, soon to be issued by the Bureau of Equipment. This will invite bids for the construction of a long-distance, high-power station, to be located in early Washington, capable of transmitting messages 3,000 miles to ships at sea.

120 Eggs Per Annum Hen.

Today the average hen is laying one hundred and forty eggs. The ability to produce such a heavy egg yield is a great benefit.

But how is such a feat accomplished? It is simply in the management of the layers, as well as in the breeding.

No matter how well bred a hen is, if she does not receive intelligent management she will never lay a satisfactory number of eggs.

Proper feed and housing goes far toward a big egg yield.

It has required considerable time and careful mating. It is not an impossibility, as some suppose, to build up an egg-laying strain with a record of one hundred and fifty behind them. Hens that have been mated with some science, housed through the winter with the proper care, fed with some intelligence on good whole some grain, can be easily induced to produce an egg yield of one hundred and fifty.

There never was such a record shown from a flock of mongrels.

It is the thriforibus varieties that hold the honor as the heavy egg records.

There are hundreds of farm flocks that are not paying their expenses. It's not the fault of the fowls, however, but of the owners. Personal experience teaches us that fowls of every description must be kept dry and clean the year round if profitable returns are expected.

The combination of proper breeding, housing and feeding brings about the large egg yield you often read about.

The greatest mistake the average man makes in keeping fowls is to keep too many in too limited a space, the result is few eggs from the hens.

Suppose we select poor, weakly stunted, ill-shaped, poor layers and feed cheap inferior grains, house the birds in cold, damp houses what would be the result?

A failure to reach our purposes.

It takes healthy, clean fowls to produce eggs. Nature rebels against filth; consequently hens to produce even an average number of eggs, must be kept from vermin.

Clean, wholesome foods, clean airy quarters, with clean, fresh water, and you have the chain unbroken.

22,000,000 Pounds of Burley Raised.

Whether the price offered for 1908 tobacco will affect the action of the Executive Committee in fixing the price for the 1907 pooled crop is a question, but it is thought the schedule will be a shade higher than the price of the 1906 pooled crop, probably about two cents.

It is said that statistics show that about 22,000,000 pounds of Burley has been raised this year. It is now asserted that the 1907 pooled crop will be placed on sale regardless of the unsold portion of the 1906 crop.

Dire distress, diabetes, Bright's disease, proft by a Mt. Sterling citizen's experience.

Mrs. Hazard Trimble, living at 4 Jamison St., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "When I began using Dunn's Kidney Pills I was a very sick woman and was unable to stand upon my feet or do any house work. I had pains in my left side and the action of the kidney secretions was not regular and at times they were so scanty that there was an almost complete suppression. I began to see signs of dropsy in my limbs and hands and my condition was becoming worse when I began using Dunn's Kidney Pills, procured at F. C. Duerson's drug store. I have been greatly benefited and feel like a different woman. These results have proven to me their effectiveness as a kidney remedy, and I am pleased to give them my highest endorsement."
